Details of Incident:

On Monday, November 19, 2007 at 12:04 am officers were dispatched to a residence Pheasant Ridge Trail. A 46-year-old female was walking alone westbound on Lake George Road. She observed a lone male walking behind her; she became scared and started running towards her home. The male suspect caught up to her and pulled her to a secluded area and sexually assaulted her.

The victim ran towards her home and made contact with her family, who was in the area looking for her. They immediately called the police.

The police department would like to remind all persons, especially females, to walk with a friend, especially at night.
